

Bibliography

PUBLICATIONS ON HEALTH AND HUMAN RIGHTS THEMES: 1982–1998

Amnesty International

In 1980, Amnesty International published a short bibliography of articles written by members of the organization's medical groups. In the years that followed, further updates appeared, with articles being included according to their relevance to Amnesty International's work. This bibliography was reissued in 1984, 1987, 1990, 1993, and most recently in 1997. The bibliography presented here is based on the 1997 version but has been updated to include publications from 1998.

There has been an enormous expansion in the number and quality of articles and books on human rights themes in the past two decades, and this is reflected here. To make the bibliography easier to use, references have been gathered into categories reflecting the concerns and interests of Amnesty International.

This bibliography makes no claim to completeness. Rather it is a selected listing of papers, articles, and books with an emphasis on publications that can be retrieved from medical or other libraries. For articles prior to 1982, see earlier AI bibliographies (for example, Bibliography of publications on health and human rights themes, AI Index: ACT 75/03/93, September 30, 1993). A serious attempt has been made to provide sufficient information for each publication

Amnesty International is an independent nonprofit organization working for the international protection of human rights. This version of the bibliography was edited by James Welsh and Doris Bäsler, with assistance from Janice Selkirk. Please address correspondence to James Welsh, Amnesty International, International Secretariat, 1 Easton Street, London WC1X 8DJ, UK.

to allow a reader to obtain a copy through normal library request. Where readers are unable to obtain copies, Amnesty International may be able to suggest possible alternative sources. In general, though, this is a "help-yourself" bibliography.

This bibliography has not indexed individual articles from Health and Human Rights (with the exception of several bibliographic articles that supplement the information contained here). Please note that, in addition to several general issues, Health and Human Rights has published a number of special theme issues that may be of interest:

- Vol. 1 No. 4: Women's Health and Human Rights
- Vol. 2 No. 1: Human Rights and Health Professionals
- Vol. 2 No. 3: 2nd International Conference on Health and Human Rights
- Vol. 2 No. 4: HIV/AIDS and Human Rights/Part I: Roots of Vulnerability
- Vol. 3 No. 1: HIV/AIDS and Human Rights/Part II: Uprooting Vulnerability
- Vol. 3 No. 2: Fiftieth Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights

The Internet—the worldwide network of computers that can be accessed by anyone with a computer and appropriate hardware and software—is an increasingly important resource for human rights and health information. The following sites have a human rights orientation or relevant information:
